The blue whale is the largest animal on earth. Its size is as long as three buses put together! They live in the deep, big ocean and love to eat tiny sea creatures called krill. A blue whale can eat millions of krill in a day. The blue whales have a special heart which is as big as a small car. They are known for their beautiful songs that they sing underwater. These songs can be heard for many miles. Even though they are so big, blue whales are very gentle. They have a smooth, blue skin that looks a little grey. They breathe air, just like we do, and when they breathe out, water sprays high into the air from a special hole on top of their head. Blue whales travel a lot. They move from cold areas to warm areas throughout the year. They have a long life and can live up to 90 years. But at present, they are in danger and their number is decreasing day by day. We all need to take initiative to protect these amazing marine creatures by stopping the people from hunting them for trading. The government should also keep a check on human activities that are polluting oceans.
