Q.1) Read the given passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Vegetarianism is not all about eating vegetables. It is actually a type of diet which involves consuming plant-based food such as vegetables, fruits, grains and nuts, sometimes with or without dairy products and eggs. Followers of this diet typically avoid eating fish, meat, poultry and seafood. There are different types of vegetarianism. A person who follows the strictest form of vegetarianism avoids eating food other than those from plant sources. A lacto-vegetarian eats dairy products with no eggs or meat. Lacto-ovo vegetarianism includes a diet of dairy products and eggs but not meat and ovo—vegetarianism followers consume only eggs but not meat. Vegetarians state health, ethical, environmental, religious and cultural reasons for the choice they make. Some vegetarians believe that being carnivorous is wrong and that it is cruel to kill animals for food. There have been reports of farms and factories that treat animals poorly. To save storage space and to meet high demands, chickens are packed very tightly in cages. They are also injected with growth hormones so that they lay more eggs within a short period of time. A balanced vegetarian diet is also very healthy as it can prevent health problems such as diabetes, high cholesterol and obesity. Environmental activists find that raising livestock depletes natural resources. Grazing erodes topsoil and deforestation for farming purposes destroys biodiversity. For some religions, vegetarianism is observed as a moral conduct. In the teachings of Hinduism, vegetarianism is encouraged because of its non-violent approach towards animals. It is also believed that non – plant based foods harm the mind and spiritual progress of a person.
